"LOCALLY BASED, GLOBALLY RENOWNED"

Miller Mayer, LLP is a full-service law firm with a large immigration practice. Based in Ithaca, New York and with an office in Shanghai, China, Miller Mayer delivers exceptional advice in real time on a global level.

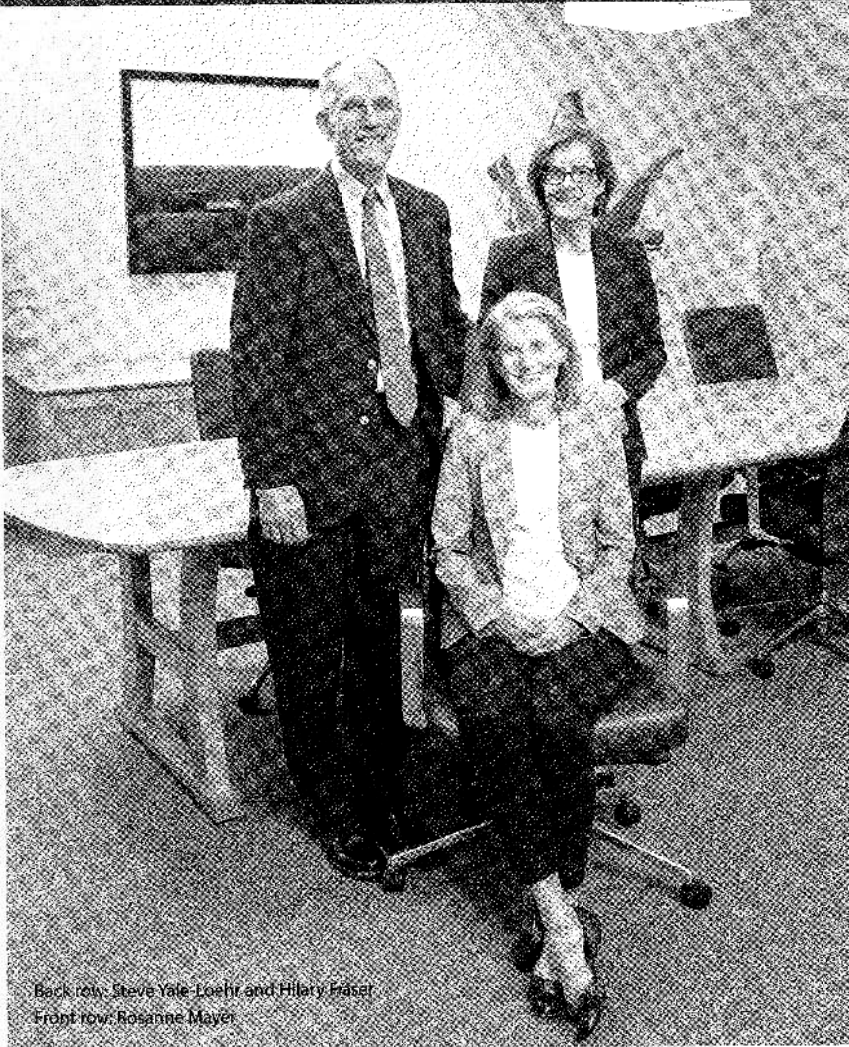

Miller Mayer's web site states, "Drawing inspiration from both the upstate work ethic and our university town's creative vitality, we provide legal services to individuals and businesses of all sizes." Their reputation for strong client relationships throughout New York and beyond includes their renowned immigration practice, which serves clients around the world.

That's the picture "in a nutshell," but behind the impressive credentials and staff of Miller Mayer, LLP is the true neighborhood heart of three key immigration attorneys. Partner Rosanne Mayer and Steve Yale-Loehr, of Counsel, are long-time residents of Cayuga Heights. Hilary Fraser, also an immigration partner, lives nearby in Cornell Heights.

When Miller Mayer was started in 1986, little did the founders know that immigration would become the largest practice group in the firm. Steve joined in 1990 and Hilary and Rosanne joined in 1991.

A bit of company history...

The firm's immigration practice has grown from a couple of lawyers and one staff person working part-time to the current staff of 12 immigration lawyers and over 20 immigration staff members. The civic participation of Miller Mayer, LLP over the years also makes it a truly community-oriented firm. The firm's immigration attorneys give presentations to students on campuses, speak at "know your rights" presentations, and provide pro bono work for organizations and individuals all over the country.
